Message from the President and the Director

We adults and children, education professionals and families, administrators and board members, support staffs and individuals—all of various backgrounds, educations, and cultural heritages—happily come together day after day and year after year on behalf of the students.

All of our students have visual impairments, some have multiple impairments, some are deafblind, and all are special in the best, most positive sense of the word. They and their families are the focal point of our school, which itself is a family constructed from many families. Our community, the OSB family, has the strength, resources, and compassion of the many. Separately we do good things. Together we do great things.

And how do we know this?

Our knowledge begins with OSB's idealistically pragmatic vision and mission statements. With each student, regardless of his or her abilities, we aim high: to provide the greatest opportunity for an active and fulfilling life and to inspire achievements according to the highest individual potential. We follow through with the best teachers and paraeducators; a dedicated therapy, audiology, and O&M department; mainstream, adaptive, and accessible technology; inclusive and challenging extra curricular activities, including music, theatre, and sports; job training and placement; and expansive transition services.

But how do we know that together we do great things?

Although there are many proofs along the way as we observe, track, and celebrate the progress of our students, the final proof lies with our graduates, and this year's graduating class is proof positive.

The graduates stood out for their personal accomplishments, even as they represented the life of the school with the broad range of what they accomplished throughout their school years.

Together and individually they have excelled. Two of the June 2010 graduates, in their senior year, presented an overview of a particularly useful and complicated assistive technology device to a group of educators. Many of them held on- and off-campus jobs during their student years. They excelled in sports, won art awards and sold their art work, wrote and starred in their own theatre workshop creations. Some are on their way to training programs, group homes, and the warmth of their families. Some are going to college, and some are already gainfully employed. They have all learned about themselves and the world, and they are poised to continue to learn using the foundation we have helped them erect.

They have been and they remain integral members of the OSB family. We are proud of them and of the great things that we've done together.

Now, we invite you to read a bit more about who we are and what we do as we honor the many individuals, groups, and benefactors who comprise the OSB family.

Carolyn Friedman, President of the Board of Managers

Gerald Kitzhoffer, Director

Imagine a very large, diverse, and loving community, one that inspires, nurtures, and supports its members, wherever they come from and wherever they go. The members of this community are individuals and families with a singular vision and mission: To help people with visual impairments and blindness—some with additional issues, and some who are deafblind—to achieve their highest potential and to provide the greatest opportunity to experience active and fulfilling lives.

The community is Overbrook School for the Blind—a family, really, made up of many families, most of them in the Pennsylvania counties of Philadelphia, Bucks, Delaware, Chester and Montgomery, some from other states, and others from overseas.

Our on campus programs include the Early Childhood component of the Early Intervention Program (EIP); Elementary; Middle School; High School; School to Work; Work Experience; the Aquatics and Residential Programs; the White Hall Independent Living Program; and Occupational, Physical, and Speech Therapy, Orientation and Mobility, and Audiology services. Combined, these programs serve students between three and 21 years of age.

Our off campus programs are both local and international.

Off Campus Local and International Outreach

Early Intervention Program (EIP)

Through EIP's Early Intervention Outreach component, last year we served 240 families whose children with visual impairments range in age from birth to three; and through the Pre-School Community component, we served 36 families with three- to five-year-olds who have visual impairments.

"We provide quality service to the families in their homes and in their communities," one of OSB's educators says. "There's a difference in delivery from family to family, from need to need."

EIP's annual Summer Workshop reaches out to families with babies who are visually impaired or blind but are not currently served by us in other ways. The workshop provides information and helps to build a sense of community among the participants.

Sixteen families attended the recent Summer Workshop. Among the many written comments from parents at the end of the workshop, this one captures the general consensus as well as the flavor of the three-day event:

“Coming to Summer Workshop was such a relief—just to meet other parents and adults who ‘get it.’ It has been emotional, supportive, informative, encouraging, and building. And it’s been nice to have my daughter so well taken care of so I could focus on learning and building relationships. I learned a lot about what to do now, how to prepare for the future, and the kinds of questions I need to continue to ask. And I have new friends I can identify with. I don’t feel so alone.”

International Program

The International Program continues to serve Chinese educators and through the educators their students who are blind or visually impaired in China. This past year we started to use distance learning as a way to share information with all of those who work in the field of education for the visually impaired in China.

Through the work of ON-NET (Overbrook-Nippon Network on Educational Technology) we also continue to have a strong and positive impact in Southeast Asia. We had an expanded RAC (Regional Advisory Committee) meeting to discuss and look for ways to address local and regional needs.

Both components of the International Program provide funding and training to local partners, enabling them to work toward total independence, while addressing their particular needs and circumstances.

On Campus Early Childhood, Elementary, and Middle School

Family relationships of all kinds might be most apparent in EIP’s Early Childhood (EC), where the students, three to five years of age, are having their first full time, on campus school experience. For the primary family unit, there is the huge change of having to trust Overbrook to care for and educate their child. For Overbrook there is the challenge to make the entire family feel honored and respected and to bring them into the Overbrook family.

Working with all the joy and intensity of a family, the Early Childhood education staff starts welcoming, comforting, teaching, and entertaining their new and returning students from the first day. Then, throughout the school year, there are gatherings with staff, students, and the students’ families. Games and learning experiences abound and refreshments are served.

Some of the many definitions for family:

a basic social unit consisting of parents and their children, considered as a group, whether dwelling together or not: the traditional family

the staff, or body of assistants, of an official: the office family

a group of people who are generally not blood relations but who share common attitudes, interests, or goals

<http://dictionary.reference.com/browse/family>

One recurring event called Dogs (meaning hot dog) for Dads pays particular attention to the men in our EC students' lives. This year, in addition to the wives and husbands, uncles and brothers and significant others who came, the men of the OSB Maintenance staff added to the festivities. The youngsters were so happy with the added attention that they sent thank you cards to their new mentors.

During the 2009-2010 school year, in which we served approximately 220 students on campus, EC had a record number of 60 children, more than 25 percent of the entire enrollment.

There were 43 Elementary students this past year, ages six through 10. As with all OSB programs, the students' education is tailored to particular needs and abilities as drawn out in the Individual Education Plans (IEPs). This is done, partly, through monthly themes that incorporate Pennsylvania state standards for social studies and science and utilize hands-on activities and multi-sensory experience, adapted to the individual student's needs.

With the entire program located in Biddle House, the family aspects of the Elementary staff are easily seen. Classrooms are close to each other, a special garden is just outside, and when you enter Biddle, you see the children and education staff interacting, learning, teaching, supporting each other, and having fun.

As with all programs, Middle School, which served 33 students last year, emphasizes literacy and communication skills. The program educates children between 11 and 14 years of age with academic, functional academic, life skills, and experiential components. Academic students follow the typical curriculum for students their age.

The familial aspect of OSB is always in evidence when children move up from one program to another. It is usual for parents, students, support staff, and education staff to come together to cheer the students in the auditorium as they prepare to move from Elementary to Middle School. Smiles, laughter, tears, pride, and awards abound—as they do within other programs—with families and staff coming together in the common cause of doing all that they can do to celebrate the students’ accomplishments.

High School (HS), School to Work (STW), and the Work Experience Program (WEP)

Throughout most of the last school year, OSB educators and administrators set the framework to expand and fully implement our Extended School Year (ESY). As a result, in addition to serving eligible Elementary students, ESY now also serves the eligible students in Middle School, High School, and

School to Work. One program coordinator, seems to speak for everyone when she says, “ESY is huge. Those six weeks in the summer are very important. Having the students continue following their IEPs past June, in a fun and friendly atmosphere, continues their education and preparation for the world.”

OSB’s HS students are between 15 and 18 years of age. Depending upon their needs and abilities, they follow a typical academic curriculum that prepares them for college, technical school, or competitive employment; or they follow a functional academic program with core curriculum classes designed to help them lead independent lives.

School to Work serves students who are 19 - 21 years of age. With a focus on preparing the students to lead productive and satisfying lives, transition planning is an important part of the program.

Forty-eight students were served by the HS this past year and 33 by STW. A total of 26 students graduated this June—the largest graduating class since 1972. But the HS and STW students didn't just graduate. They excelled, each going his or her own way to a four-year college, training program, two-year college, employment, or some other "next step" commensurate with their current abilities, needs, and interests.

Many of these young men and women were part of the phenomenally successful theater workshop that was presented as part of the spring concert. They wrote, performed, and sang works-in-progress that represent their thoughts, feelings, and life experiences.

"Each family is different and we respect those differences and work with them."

An OSB teacher

"The life experiences that our students bring to Overbrook are wide ranging. Nuclear families, religious and non-religious families, extended families, and families capable of varying degrees of financial and emotional support. But here, at school, the students create an additional family atmosphere. They are loving, caring, and dynamic. They consistently help each other."

A program coordinator

Work Experience is an elective program for students, starting in the Elementary years and ending upon graduation. On campus, there is a production area, where students fulfill the demands of two workshop contracts. Other on campus work includes brailleing, delivering papers, and making T-shirt imprints.

Two students distinguished themselves over the past two years working on campus with the Maintenance department. Other students worked as aides during the summer for the extended school year. Off campus, students worked in such commercial enterprises as a local bakery and a uniform supply company.

Living on Campus

The White Hall Independent Living Project came fully into its own this past year. Long in the planning, the implementation of this transition program has been a resounding success.

A program coordinator was designated and a teacher hired to implement a full time education program. Students were assessed on entry level skills and given classes in all areas of independent living.

Thirteen OSB students lived in the White Hall apartments this past year-eight young men and five young women. They are a diverse group from Philadelphia and the suburbs. Ten are African American, two are Caucasian, and one is Hispanic.

The coordinator reports that the students' parents were initially a little hesitant and concerned about their children living away from home, "but after a very short time, the students' enthusiasm and increased independence changed the concern to pride in their children's accomplishments."

Although we are primarily a commuter school, OSB additionally provides a warm and welcoming environment for the few students who live on campus in the Friedlander dormitory during the week.

Friedlander has all the amenities that one associates with "home," including private bedrooms, community rooms, games, television, camaraderie, off campus trips, and various celebrations, both planned (as in the annual Thanksgiving dinner) and impromptu parties. All, of course, supervised by carefully chosen staff, who foster a sense of independence in the students.

"From last year one mom and her little girl stick out in my memory. The girl had just started Early Childhood, and mom was nervous, caring, well meaning. Would her little girl be OK in a new place with new faces after being home with her for the first three years of life?"

The little girl and her family are being well cared for at Overbrook, and they remain really involved in their child's development. They ask about what they can do at home to promote the goals of the little girl's IEP and help her to enjoy leisure activities and have access to communication devices wherever she goes.

The girl's combined challenges, including physical and vocal restrictions, were and continue to be successfully addressed by a team approach that included an OT, PT, and audiologist working with other staff and—of course!—the family."

An Occupational Therapist

Occupational (OT), Physical (PT), and Speech (ST) Therapists; Audiologist; Orientation and Mobility (O&M) Specialists; and the Low Vision Clinic

Fifteen therapists and one audiologist provided a variety of therapies (from one to a combination of four therapies) to 188 students; and five full time O&M specialists (plus one O&M specialist who divided her time between on campus (40%) and off campus programs) served the needs of approximately 142 students during the past school year.

The Therapy Department supports each individual student's ability to access his or her education program and environment. The therapists, audiologist, and O&M instructors work directly with students as well as through staff consultation and training and provide training and support for the students' families.

Additionally, the Therapy Department works with Salus University to provide low vision examinations on our campus for OSB students who are at the transition ages of two, four, six, 10,14, 17, and 20. This past school year, the Low Vision Clinic served a total of 60 students.

OSB is a comfortable, giving place. The typical family, bringing their child here, fears the unknown. At least that was my personal experience. But the school educated all of us and helped us, as a family, to move forward in our relationships with each other and to understand each other better. It was, for me, a great and transforming experience."

An alumnus

A Special Place

Although the Overbrook Friedlander Programs (OFP) is a separate entity from the Overbrook School for the Blind, our annual report would not be complete if we failed to recognize its accomplishments.

OFP was founded in 1986 to address the needs of women and men graduating from our school, who had Congenital Rubella Syndrome for which there were no services available.

Between July 1, 2009, and June 30, 2010, OFP provided services to 16 women and men in Community Homes and 22 women and men on campus in the Wynnewood apartments and day programs.

Families of the graduates with Rubella and education staff from our school—in the Overbrook tradition of families of all kinds coming together—were the driving force behind the creation of OFP.

Highlights

Art Show

The Greater Philadelphia community came together with the OSB community for a grand and dazzling on campus art show. Professional artists who have shown and sold their work in Center City and other area galleries, as well as accomplished staff and student artists, displayed their work (oil paintings, watercolors, photography, sculptures, and multimedia pieces), much of it bought on the spot by appreciative guests. Part of the proceeds from the sales and in some cases all of the proceeds were donated to the school.

Graduation

A very large graduating class and two honored alumni were among the special aspects of this year's commencement ceremony. Of greater import than numbers, however, was the lifetime accomplishments of Joanne Malatesta Davidoff (class of 1950), a champion of braille literacy who taught at our school for more than 24 years, and Louis Quay (1966), a world traveler and International Trade Specialist who worked for the U.S. Commerce Department. (For a sampling of the accomplishments of this year's graduates, please see the President and Director's Message.)

Golf Outing

Overbrook's first annual golf tournament, co-sponsored by P.E.R.C., OSB's parent organization, raised more than $15,000 for our school. Major corporate sponsors included Cooke & Bieler, Bridge View Paper Company, and Powers Craft Parker and Beard, Inc., whose foursome took first place on the welcoming and challenging Westover Country Club course.

Special Concert

Songs from the Beatles, performances by the Bell Choir, Choir, and Mixed Ensemble—and a one-act musical celebration called “Through Our Eyes”—made the spring concert very special indeed. Written by students over a period of months in the OSB Writing Workshop, “Through Our Eyes” dramatized in ways both emotionally moving and humorous their thoughts and feelings about visual impairment, OSB, families, friends, and life in general. A grant from CVS Pharmacy and the hands-on support of the Amarylis Theatre Company helped to make the evening possible.

Collaboration with Kutztown

Under the direction of Dr. David Ross (Department of Special Education) 13 Kutztown University students came to our campus approximately every two weeks over a three month period to observe, assist, and learn in the classroom as well as in the Friedlander dormitory and White Hall independent living apartments. The Kutztown teachers-in-training gained real-world experience and our teachers had the opportunity to see, discuss, and evaluate the latest pedagogical approaches and techniques.

Gifts to the School

Overbrook School for the Blind is a private, non-profit educational organization that qualifies for tax-exempt contributions. Besides the most popular form of giving, the gift of cash directly to the school, there are many ways for individuals, organizations, and corporations to support the school and its programs, including:

- A gift of cash made either directly or designated to the school through other agencies, such as the United Way or the Combined Federal Campaign. Overbrook's number with the United Way of Southeastern Pennsylvania is 00816
- A gift of cash, if made by an individual, may also qualify for a matching gift from the donor's employer
- A gift in memory of a relative or a friend

- In-kind gifts of services, goods, equipment, or property
- A gift of appreciated securities or real estate, outright or deferred
- A gift of a life insurance policy, designating the school as beneficiary
- A charitable gift annuity, which in addition to helping the school, provides the donor or a designee with a regular stream of income
- A gift by will. Those who wish to make a personal bequest to the school may use the following language:

"I hereby give, devise, and bequeath to Overbrook School for the Blind, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the sum of _____dollars ($_____).

I direct that this sum be applied to the general uses and purposes of the corporation under the direction of its Board of Managers."

For additional information about these methods of giving and other ways of supporting the school such as donating used cell phones and shopping at Target and Genuardi's, please visit the support section of www.obs.org or contact:
